DOUGLAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GROWING

Already Has Membership of 191 With More to Come.

The Douglas chamber of commerce and mines now counts a membership of 191 and the end is not yet. This report was submitted at a meeting of the executive committee last Saturday, and even by this time perhaps the membership has attained the two hundred mark.

The committee has not as yet accepted any one of the fifteen applications for the position of secretary which have been received and filed. More references from some of the applicants have been called for.

No by-laws and constitution have as yet been adopted though a rough draft of some regulations has been prepared and will shortly be submitted to the executive committee.

Collections, it was reported at the Saturday meeting, are good, and in every detail the affairs of the new organization are in an escape—international-American.

SEN. FORAKER WILL GET VOTE OF DISTRICT

District of Columbia Candidate Favors Ohioan Because of His Fight For the Colored Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—John W. Patterson, who is the running mate of Gen. Andrew D. Burt in the race of delegates from the District to the Republican national convention, last night declared his intention of voting for the nomination of Senator Foraker as President, if successful at the coming primaries. Like Gen. Burt, he says he is for the Ohio Senator "first, last and all the time."

He defines his position as follows: "As a candidate for delegate from the District to the Republican convention, I wish to say that I am unalterably for Senator Foraker."

"My principal reasons for favoring the Ohio Senator are these: His fight for the colored soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry entitles him to the greatest respect of the colored voters of the District. His fight on the floor of the Senate for adherence to the Constitution of the United States, and his great wisdom exemplified on all questions of national importance, has forced me to conclude that he is the most logical and deserving man in the country today for the Presidency of the United States. If elected a delegate to the convention I not only will vote for Senator Foraker, but I will work among the delegates to the convention to secure his nomination and subsequent election."

James W. Poe, chairman of the colored vigilance campaign committee, issued a second statement last night, in which he declares that practically every colored voter in the District will support the Burt-Patterson ticket. If any of the colored voters fail to cast their ballots for this combination, he says they will have demonstrated that they oppose Foraker.

Chairman Poe says: "The published statement of Gen. Burt that he is for Senator Foraker makes the duty of the colored voters plain. I shall support the Burt-Patterson ticket, and I ask that all my friends do the same thing. To oppose the Ohio Senator would be utterly inconsistent, and I do not believe that the colored voters of the District wish to exhibit any disrespect to Mr. Foraker. To vote against the Burt-Patterson ticket would be to vote against Senator Foraker. The ticket should be elected by the largest majority ever given any ticket in the District. I have made a thorough canvass of the colored voters and the promise of unwavering loyalty, which means a crowning victory for the Burt-Patterson ticket."

Among the colored organizations which have pledged their support to Senator Foraker, and who are regarded as being the Inter-denominational Ministers' Union African Methodist Episcopal Preachers Union, Baptist Ministers' Conference and the C. M. E. Preachers' Union.

TUCSON WILL HAVE AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Planned to Form Organization with View of Making Periodical Trip.

TUCSON, March 17.—Hon. Alfred S. Donau has evolved an excellent plan to give Tucson more prominence in the Southwest, and to enable the citizens of this city to come into closer intercourse with their customers present and prospective, and at the same time offer opportunities for relaxation from business cares.

The proposition advanced by Mr. Donau involves the organization of an automobile club in Tucson and to arrange for weekly outings of club members and friends to cover a day on each trip, possibly an occasional night one. The trips as planned will include runs to towns and mining camps in Pima and adjoining counties. These trips will give Tucsonians frequent opportunity to come into closer relationship, socially and otherwise, with those who seldom visit the city. In a word, the runs will afford automobilists means of rapid transit to points inaccessible by railroads and at the same time enable them to see the country under better conditions than is afforded by the methods of transportation over highways. An automobile club will, in making the trips, learn of the condition of roads and be the means of causing improvement.

PRESIDENT WILL DEMAND TRUST LEGISLATION

Draft of Bill Amending Sherman Anti-Trust Law Now Ready After Many Conferences on Subject.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.—President Roosevelt will make an earnest effort to obtain radical amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law. Conferences have been held at the white house with representative men, including the principal law officers of the government. They have agreed on the draft of a bill to be submitted to congress and the president expects to send in a special message on this subject.

The final conference was held at the white house last night and the work of drafting the bill was practically concluded today. The president is impressed with the utility of having important statutes on the books which cannot be enforced. He will insist that before adjournment congress amend the present law to permit the existence of combinations provided they submit to rigid government supervision.

The proposed law will permit pooling by railroads and it will exempt labor unions from prosecution as monopolies. The Sherman law, if the president's ideas are followed out, will be relaxed in certain directions and strengthened in others.

Views of Many Minds.
The plan represents the views of financiers, corporation managers, railroaders, civic federalists, and labor leaders. The bill as it will be submitted to congress, probably by Mr. Hepburn, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, will be backed up in advance by the presidential message, which will make the passage of this one law, at least, a decisive issue between congress and the executive.

In the conferences held at the white house ending with the one last night, President Roosevelt has had the active advice of Secretary Root, who has given a great deal of attention to corporation law; Secretary Garfield, formerly at the head of the bureau of corporations; Attorney General Bonaparte Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations; former Mayor Seth Low of New York; Francis Lynde Stetson of New York, general counsel for J. P. Morgan and company; Victor Morawetz, general solicitor of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Elbert H. Gary, executive officer of the steel trust; George W. Perkins of J. P. Morgan and company and representatives of minor labor bodies.

At the opening of the conferences it seemed impossible to reconcile the conflicting interests involved.

Ready for Hepburn's Hands.
There was manifest constitutional objections to the federal regulation of business of corporations in the work of manufacturing. To labor representatives were afraid of any further restriction upon the right of organization or the interference of the federal authorities to settle local disputes. The railroad corporations wanted the right to form traffic associations and money pools, either for the maintenance of rates by agreement or for the actual division of income. All of the big corporations insisted that the present law was indiscriminate in its effect, because it permitted the prosecution of combinations which might be in restraint of trade, but at the same time entirely legitimate.

Out of the conferences, however, there has grown a substantial agreement, and the work of preparing a bill on which all interests could stand has progressed to such a point that it is almost ready to be put into the hands of Colonel Hepburn.

The result of the conferences is a decided victory for President Roosevelt. The bill will be closely along the lines of the messages he has sent to congress. The special message, if one is sent in, will be but a repetition of views expressed.

Penalty on Harmful Combine.
The government side, which will be presented by the president, is that the anti-trust law should in no case be repealed, but that it should be altered so as to put a penalty only on the kind of combination which does actual harm to public and private interests.

As a consideration for the relaxation of the present law, which, it is admitted, prohibits the existence of corporations which on the whole are beneficial, the government will insist that it be given supervisory power over all the big concerns engaged in interstate commerce business. The idea is to amend the Sherman law in such a way that the general prohibition of all combinations should have attached to it a proviso legalizing combinations of those whose operations are subjected to the supervision and regulation of the federal authorities.

THE OHIO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

The recently adopted platform of the Ohio Republican Convention includes among state issues—"the abolishment of child labor"—and the Democratic Convention is quite likely to agree with its opponent on this point. But why the cause? Why, except that child labor in factories and mines, in stores and in offices, has become a crying abuse—a crime against weakness and immaturity, a sacrifice of the precious years—that should be devoted to education and healthful play—to the hard necessity of earning their own living or of helping to support the family, some of them, we may be sure, are struggling to retrieve the mistakes of fathers who died without life insurance and left them no other resource than their own puny hands. And what is the mother to do when left with small children whose care absorbs all her time and strength. Make her support and the children's education sure and ample by Life Insurance.

Much of the real wisdom of life consists in avoiding mistakes—in not doing the things that require so much effort and suffering to retrieve, and in doing the things that provide safeguards against disaster.

A policy in the New York Life is the greatest safeguard against all the vicissitudes of life. Do it Now!
